WILMINGTON, NORTH CAROLINA.

THIS TOWN, the capital of New Hanover County, and the largest and most commercial place in the State, is situated mainly on the East side of the Cape Fear River, 34 miles from its mouth, in latitude $34^{\circ} 11'$ North, longitude $78^{\circ} 10'$ West from Greenwich.

Wilmington owes much of its commercial importance to its position upon the largest and best navigable river within the State, which admits vessels of five hundred tons burthen to reach its wharves from the sea, while steamers ply regularly as high as Fayetteville, during the greater portion of the year, and rafts and flats from the different tributaries of the main stream bring in immense quantities of produce for sale or shipment.

In addition to these natural advantages, the prosperity of Wilmington has been considerably enhanced by the construction of important works of internal improvement, bringing her into connection with nearly every section of the State. Of these works, the first in the order of time was the Wilmington and Weldon Rail Road, running from Wilmington to Weldon, 162 miles, in a northerly direction. Somewhat later the Wilmington and Manchester Rail Road was built, connecting Wilmington with the improvements of the State of South Carolina on the South, as the Wilmington and Weldon Rail Road does with those of Virginia on the North. These two roads form part of the great Northern and Southern Seaboard Route between Portland and New Orleans. The Wilmington and Weldon Rail Road has been paying liberal dividends for years, and the prospects for remunerative profits being soon realized by the stockholders in the Wilmington and Manchester Rail Road Company become every day more cheering.

The Wilmington, Charlotte and Rutherford Rail Road, of over two hundred miles in length, now in course of construction, will open up to the trade and enterprise of Wilmington a large and wealthy section of country, from which important accessions to the commerce of the place must certainly be derived.

The Wilmington & Weldon Railroad connects with the North Carolina Railroad at Goldsboro', and thus Wilmington is put in communication with a large portion of the middle section of the State, while the Western North Carolina Railroad, connecting with the North Carolina Railroad at Salisbury, and designed to cross the Blue Ridge in the direction of Asheville, will give easy access to a country celebrated for the salubrity of its climate, the romantic beauty of its scenery, and the undisputed possession of the loftiest mountains east of the Mississippi.

The port of Wilmington is also the natural outlet for the trade of the great mining region of the State, situated in the Deep River country, in Chatham county. As soon as the riches of this region are developed, Wilmington can hardly fail to receive marked and substantial benefits from this developement.

In view of these advantages, present and prospective, there appears to be no good reason to apprehend any serious check to the growth of the town for many years to come; on the contrary, an accelerated progress, both in wealth and population, may fairly be anticipated.

In 1840 the census of the United States represented the population of Wilmington as amounting to 4,744, and in 1850 to 7,264. An estimate fixing the present population at 11,000 will probably be found to vary very little from the actual result of the census now being taken, (June, 1860.)

The assessed value of the real estate of the town, however, has more than kept pace with its advancing population, having increased fully six-fold since the commencement of the several works of internal improvement which serve to pour the produce of the country into the warehouses or upon the wharves of the port, as well as to convey to the different points in the interior the supplies of goods and merchandise called for by the wants or wishes of the people.

Among the public buildings of Wilmington, mention may be made of its Churches, of which there are eleven, some of them being really imposing edifices; the U. S. Custom House, and Marine Hospital; the Town Hall and Theatre, one of the finest municipal buildings south of the Potomac; the Court House and County Jail, together with the depots of the several Railroad Companies. The town is lit with gas, being the first town in the State to introduce that improvement.

There are two daily papers published in Wilmington. There are four banks:—The Bank of Cape Fear, the Commercial Bank, the Bank of Wilmington, and the Wilmington Branch of the Bank of North Carolina. There is also the Savings Bank, but it is not a bank of issue. The banking house of the Bank of Cape Fear justly ranks among the finest public buildings in the State.

Although the largest naval store market in the world, the trade of Wilmington is not confined to that department exclusively, but embraces a great variety of produce for export, including cotton, rice, pea nuts, flour, timber and lumber, etc., while manufacturing industry, although receiving less attention than it deserves, is not wholly neglected. Shipping and commission business, wholesale and retail merchandising in all departments, are extensively engaged in. A brisk trade is fast springing up with the West Indies and South America. Numerous lines of sailing packets connect Wilmington with many of the northern ports of the country, and a line of steamships between Wilmington and New York will probably be put in operation within the present year, in fact one of the ships of this line commences her trips this month.

In conclusion it may be proper to say, that the list of interments in proportion to population, as well as the general health of the people, go to show that the climate of Wilmington is fully equal to that of any seaboard city or town in the United States.

THE DAILY JOURNAL,

(ESTABLISHED IN 1851.)

The oldest and most widely circulated daily paper in the State, (publishes by law the list of letters,) is published six times a week at $6 per annum, payable in advance.— Daily reports of the markets and telegraphic news, up to the hour of going to press, are given in this paper.

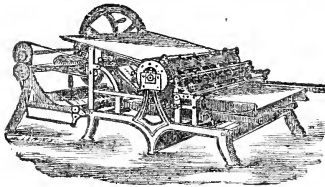

THE WILMINGTON JOURNAL,

(ESTABLISHED 1844.)

Is issued every Thursday morning at $2 50 per annum, invariably in advance. This paper contains all the principal news of the week, and all the important editorial matter of the several daily issues, together with a weekly review of the markets of the town, carefully compiled by our own reporter. This review may be relied upon as strictly correct. We also give the latest reports of the Northern and other markets.

The circulation of the WILMINGTON JOURNAL, (weekly,) is now quite large, and is constantly on the increase. The DAILY Journal has also a very respectable and growing circulation, especially among business men. These papers afford facilities for advertising surpassed by no other in this State or section.

The Wilmington Herald.

The DAILY HERALD is published every day, Sundays excepted, at $6 a year, invariably in advance. Its circulation is as large as that of any Daily in the State and constantly increasing. It is one of the best advertising mediums in the State, from the fact that it circulates in every county in it. The paper is devoted to politics, agriculture and the current news of the day. We also furnish daily reports of the Wilmington market, which is prepared by a gentleman in our employ, who devotes his whole time to the business, consequently they must be reliable.

The WILMINGTON HERALD containing all the important reading matter and editorials of the several daily issues, is published every Thursday morning, and furnished to subscribers at $2 a year, in advance. The Wilmington Herald increases its circulation every issue, and is a most excellent advertising medium.

C. E. & R. BURR, Editors and Proprietors.

THE HERALD Job Printing Office,

IS SITUATED ON

Market Street, No. 40 $\frac{1}{2}$, nearly opposite the City Hotel.

We most respectfully announce to the citizens of Wilmington, and elsewhere, that we are now as well prepared to do any and all kinds of

Book and Job Printing, in as neat a style and on as reasonable terms as any other establishment South. We have just received a Large and Beautiful assortment of

NEW TYPES, BORDERS, CUTS, &c.,

in addition to which, we have in constant and successful operation one of How's large Cylinder Power Printing Presses, one of Geo. P. Gordon's Fast Machine

CARD PRESSES,

WASHINGTON PRESS,

the two former of which are run by a CALORIC or hot air engine.

In fact, we have every thing necessary in a Printing Office to get up anything in the shape of Cards, Circulars, Ball Tickets, Bank Checks, Blank Notes, Rail Road Blanks, Dray Receipts, Fancy Labels, Bills Lading, Pamphlets, Receipts, Programmes, Hand Bills, Catalogues, Rail Road Tickets, Dray Tickets, Law Blanks, Bill Heads, Posters, &c.,

PLAIN OR ORNAMENTAL.

With the FINEST material, and the BEST workmen the South affords, we are DETERMINED not to be excelled in Neatness, Cheapness, Dispatch or Punctuality, for all orders entrusted to us for publication.

A share of the public patronage is most respectfully solicited. Give us a BID before you have your work done elsewhere.
